Services We Receive

The A La Carte

No one will ever dispute the fact that people need to eat. Eating is as basic to life as breathing. However, the A.U. student seems constantly faced with a dilemma—Is it healthier to eat food that the campus offers, or is it healthier to starve? Unfortunately, man does not live on Hostess Twinkies alone.

On-campus eating facilities include the Contract Dining Room, A La Carte Dining Room, the Snack Bar, the Tavern, and the vending machines. All the above led to the success of Pepto-Bismol.

Snack Bar

 The Contract Dining Room offers a refreshing diet of starches, starches and starches. A typical meal might include: spaghetti, bread, rolls, french fries, potato salad, and doughnuts for dessert.

 The A La Carte Dining Facility is a slightly more comfortable cafeteria, with a little more class than the Contract Dining Room. Unlike the other facilities, the food is served not only cooked, but warmed.

The Tavern

* The Snack Bar offers a fine variety of exquisite sandwiches. Cooked before your eyes, only the best quality Grade AAA meats are used. Swift, convenient service is their trademark.

* The Tavern, probably the best on-campus food facility, offers a pleasant atmosphere of contemporary music mixed with the sweet aroma of stale beer.

University Club

 The vending machines, when working properly (rarely), offer a wide variety of popsicles, candy, cakes, and sometimes fermented sandwiches. Prices vary from ten cents to three dollars per item.

 The University Club offers a pleasant atmosphere, but the food is unmistakably ARA. Prices may vary from meal to meal, adding to the charm of the place.

10/21/74

Dear Mom and Dad:

Sorry about not writing sooner — I did write last weekend but I fed my last cash dollar to the coin changer — which ate it and didn't give me any change to feed the stamp machine. It's O.K. — nothing much happened last weekend anyway.

Friday night my next door neighbor, Cathy, was telling me how she kept finding bees in her room so we went in and I found one when I stepped on it in my bare feet and it stung me. Then my roommate came by and told me it wasn't a bee at all — it was a hornet. Thank goodness the swelling from the sting has gone down by now.

I lost my meal ticket Tuesday — the maid found it in one of the couches and sent it to the desk downstairs. They sent it to Lost and Found but when I got there — they had already forwarded it to ARA and by the time I got to ARA they had already put it in the campus mail, so I'll probably never get it back now. Well, I was hungry of Alpo anyway —

I went to Student Accounts on Thursday and told them I didn't get a bill;

They looked up my records and told me that we'd overpaid $891.00. They asked if we wanted the money right away - so we might get the check next year. (Did we send them anything this year?)

That night we had a bomb scare, and they emptied the dorms - I think the tavern just wanted more business because Thursdays are usually pretty slow. Anyway, people were carrying out their girlfriends and dogs and stuff on screaming "I Wanna Die With My Stereo!" - I caught a cold so I went to the infirmary the next day and they gave me lots of pills and shook some bones at me and smiled too much, so I just fixed myself some tea and took a couple of aspirins.

Guess what? My roommate is the campus rep. for SCREW magazine. Isn't that neat?

Oh well - I've got to go now and try to mail this letter. I've got stamps now but the elevators burned up this morning and I don't know if I can get downstairs because they haven't got rid of the rats in the stairwell yet.

Love, your son,
Paul

P.S. Send money!

for AU/May 1975

some had told me not to come but i wanted to go and i went holding nothing but the unimaginable future in my mind

at first it hurt because no one cared and neither did i and thought of leaving approached reality

but the strangers became people who turned into friends and caring became a way of life and i began to wonder why i'd ever considered going but it all too soon became routine and the magic slipped away there wasn't time enough to leave so i remained and wallowed and now i'm going because the time for belonging here is over although i'm not happy i know i should be i wonder what ever made me stay i wonder why i had ever wanted to leave

The American Revolution Again

Considered a rebuilding year by many, the 1974-75 American University Basketball season proved not only to be an exciting campaign but successful to boot. With only one victory in their first three games the Eagles looked as if they may suffer through a meager .500 season. Then came the American Revolution of years past once again.

A 96-52 trouncing of Loyola College of Baltimore followed by victories over the University of West Virginia and crosstown rival George Washington University gave the Eagles the Presidential Classic Tournament championship once again. The Classic also emphasized the excellent scoring potential of the 6-foot 5-inch sophomore forward Calvin Brown. In the game against West Virginia "CB" as he is affectionately known by all scored a career high of 30 points and took 16 rebounds in a stellar performance.

The Eagles then showed what they were made of once again with a victory over the University of Southern Mississippi in the Hatter Classic Tournament before losing to Stetson University in overtime for the championship.

After splitting the next two games AU put their 8-4 record on the line against Georgetown University in the city championship to decide the best in the Capital. Things began to get quite exciting at this point.

Eagle Photo

With no time remaining on the clock the end of the second overtime Eagles lead 81-80. Georgetown's Bill Thomas who was fouled a heartbeat before the buzzer stood at the foul line with the world in his hands. One plus one signalled the referee with his hands. Thomas could make the first shot to tie it up once again and earn a bonus shot to win it. Fearful silence fell on Fort Meyer. Tension gnawed at the partisan American University fans. The shooter stood at the line, searching for the poise and the victory during this time of pressure. A crumpled paper cup came flying out of the stands and landed at Bill Thomas' feet with a malicious intent and a message—PRESSURE!

Thomas readied himself once again seemingly more poised this time. Finally, the shot by Thomas—no good! The Fort erupted in joyous celebration as a sea of people flooded the Eagles in ecstasy.

Six days later the Eagles flocked with the Blackbirds of Long Island University. The Eagles were losing throughout the game. They trailed the Blackbirds by seven points with only 1:30 left to play. The game was over. But then turnovers and a technical foul allowed AU to draw within one point 6 seconds before the buzzer. A charging foul by LIU turned the ball right back to the Eagles with four seconds left to play. Calvin Brown's 18-foot jump shot with one tick of the clock remaining gave AU an amazing 82-81 victory over the shocked Blackbirds. Once again Fort Meyer exploded with joy.

The Eagles then proceeded to win their first two East Coast Conference games against Temple University and St. Josephs College of Philadelphia gaining their first win in Philly's Palestra ever. The two victories were by a grand total of three points.

The handwriting was on the wall. The American Revolution was still alive and kicking.

Bea Rudder Resigns:

Jill Coverton Becomes Head of Breakfast Program

by LeRoy Tillman

With four directors managing the UHURU Community Breakfast Program this semester, one would believe there has been no sense of continuity; however, this is not the case.

Bea Rudder, who directed the program for the past three years, is going to resign this year. Because of personal reasons, she has decided to surrender her chairmanship. Former Political Chairman Luis Brown and Finance Chairman John H. Garrett, assumed responsibility following Beas departure. Now Jill Coverton, OASATAU Administrative Chairman oversees the functioning of the Breakfast Program, while Garrett still handles the financials. Let matter.

"It's still the same program. We follow the guidelines set by the previous directors. There's just a new day for," says Jill. "There haven't been any and should be many transition problems."

This means the social objectives of teaching inner-city Black youths, dexterity skills, nutritional food preparation, and the heritage and pride of Blackness will still be maintained. A Halloween party is scheduled for October 26, and Thanksgiving and Kwanzaa Christmas activities are being planned for the future. Jill admits there is much positive in working with the UHURU Community Breakfast Program. If any AU Brother or Sister can contribute three hours on Saturday mornings to this community effort, contact Jill at OASATAU, 686-1157-58, The Black Cultural Floor 244-9333, or come by Our Redeemer Church at North Capitol Street and Rhode Island Avenue NE. Saturday mornings from 10 am till 1 pm. Three hours really is not much time to donate and besides, it's for the young bloods who need positive examples to lead the way for them.

by Dellaphine Rauch

AU's Board of Trustees met Monday, October 21 in the School of International Service's lounge and the meeting turned out to be one of constant and heated debates.

The topic most discussed, and getting participation from the majority of the board members present concerned Trustee Daniel Norwood's displeasure regarding the administration's lack of progress in securing funds for the new proposed library.

Mr. Norwood had earlier revealed to the Board American University's standing among private universities nationwide receiving both public and private funds and was highly disturbed to find AU ranked 57th in outside support and ranked 18th in university size.

Trustee Norwood also stated to the Board he was very disturbed that the administration had done very little to raise funds for the proposed new library.

President George H. Williams then reacted that Mr. Norwood's charges attacking AU and the administration was a Cassandra like speech and used invidious misinformation and no information at all. He also stated that loose jointed tree wheeling statements cannot continue to be made. And that "speeches here raise less money than actually going out and soliciting contributions."

Many Board members expressed their support and approval of Mr. Norwood's statement. Trustee I. Barrett Prettyman said he did not think the response to President Williams was appropriate and that "very few of the gutsy problems come before the Board."

"A few of the members were extremely agitated because an understanding could not be met by all concerning the library," and stating that President Williams and the present administration was "doing a fine job."

The Board however did vote its approval of the 1974-75 Faculty Appointments and the 1974-75 Student Confederation budget. It also approved the reclassification of the Department of Education to the School of Education.

The Board adjourned after four hours of deliberation with a plea from Ken Gilbert, President of the Graduate Council, to form a committee of students and faculty members to provide the Trustees with information concerning aspects of the university the Board seldom hears.

This proposal, along with a recommendation to look into the procedures behind collecting activity fees guidelines proposed by the Board was referred to the Student Life Committee.

Members usually invited to Board of Trustees meetings are the chief administrators of AU, the President of the Student Confederation, the editor of UHURU, and the Station Manager of WAME AM. The special guests invited to attend were the President of the Graduate Council and for the first time the designated representative from OASATAU.

Gus Holmes
Ugly Man on Campus

Each spring, students have the opportunity to choose the Ugly Man on Campus. Men are nominated by various campus organizations, and the contest is sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega. Penny donations count as votes, and the contestant accumulating the most money is the winner. The proceeds go to the World University Service which provides books, food, and for professors to go to university centers around the world. This year's Ugly Man is APO's Gus Holmes, a government major. He is active in his fraternity, the Psychology club, and intramural sports. The 1963 contest featured a week-long program, a speaker from the World University Service, and a Beauty and the Beast dance.

Best Loved Girl

In April, all resident women crowded into the lounges of the women's dormitories to hear the results of the Best Loved Girl contest. An outstanding senior, Margaret Moore, was chosen by popular vote as the winner.

Flashback '63

The girls of Phi Mu cheered their way to the trophy by way of the "Road to Oz."

Songfest

The ZBT's and their lovely dame added a certain flip to the evening with their "South Pacific" song.

Fashion seemed to set the key note at this year's Songfest, with several firsts, costume wise as well as musically. The DG's made a grand entrance in their floor-length gold brocade gowns, the first to be worn here. The Phi Sigs, who seem to decrease their costume each year, this season showed bibs, diapers and baby bonnets! The men of Tau Epsilon Phi acted as true muscraets, with classic black faces. Both the ATO's and the Alpha Sigs were formal, featured in tuxedo's and quiet reserve. The girls of Phi Mu, Kappa Delta and AXO were a rainbow of blues, while the AEPsi ladies were sleepy in their clever nightshirts.

With nighties, caps, and fuzzy slippers, the "Sleepy Time Gals" of Alpha Kappa Phi added their bit to the evening.

The crowd pleasing Phi Sigma Kappa again proved exceptional with their portrayal of "Baby Face," featuring hammy Chris Toulson.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Welcome to Camp A.U. For the next four years you will live here, eat here, sleep here, and learn here. It will not be easy. It will be easier at times, but never easy. You will be put through a series of difficult and crucial tests when your ability to survive the A.U. experience with the least amount of permanent damage will be tested. In order to survive these tests, you will need what we veterans call the A.U. Survival Kit. You are to have these items in your possession at all times. You will need these items to complete the next four years safely. Good luck!

Sincerely,
the Camp Director

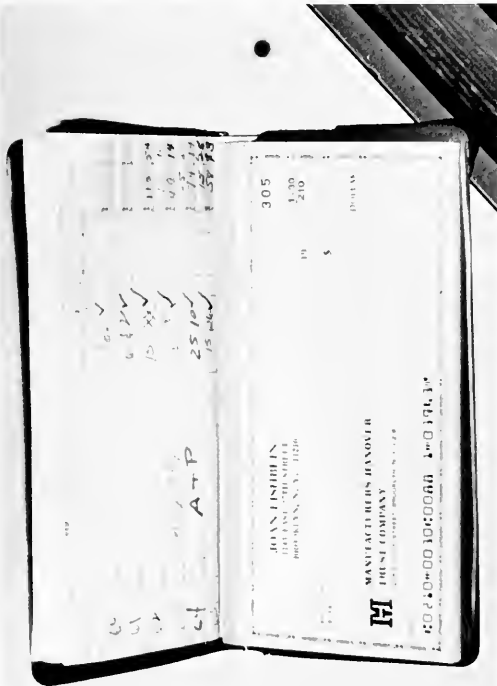

A.U. Survival Kit

The Women's Luncheon

The Community Relations Department of the Student Confederation sponsored a Business Womens Luncheon in the Collier Room of the Mary Graydon Center on November 13, 1974. A reception followed in the Faculty Dining Room for all students.

Prominant women from the D.C. area mingled with students who had been chosen by a lottery from those who signed up. The women represented a vast background of areas; careers in the arts, education, and business. Also volunteers and leaders in such projects as the Red Cross and ACTION.

Students explained the numerous activities on campus related to community services; Big Buddy Program-tutoring local elementary school children, a Hotline service, involvement in D.C. PIRG, and periodical food drives for holidays.

Judy England, chairperson of the Department, organized the reception with the help of several students. Although controversial to its end, the luncheon was considered a success by most.

Moshe Dayan

Former Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan spoke to a receptive audience in Ward I on Monday, November 11, 1974, while occasional chants from Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO) supporters outside filtered through the walls. Dayan said the Palestinians remain devoted not only to an independent state, but to the takeover of Israel itself.

In Ward II, where Dayan's speech was shown via closed circuit television to students unable to get into Ward I, pro-Palestinian hecklers shouted angrily in response to Dayan's defense of Israel's long standing refusal to negotiate with the PLO.

At the beginning of a week which marked the recognized participation of the PLO in a U.N. debate on Palestine, Dayan said there is "no room" for a Palestinian state between Israel and Jordan.

The Climax Blues Band

The "Climax Blues Band" started the first of twenty-six concerts of their sixth U.S. tour at American University on Sunday, October 27, 1974. It was a warm, windy day; perfect weather for a concert. "Evernow", a local band, was the backup band.

"Climax" was expected to give the least of the concerts in the Fall semester, but their performance was the best", commented Rich Rothschild of the SUB Concert Committee. There were no technical problems, and both the sound and stage were flawless.

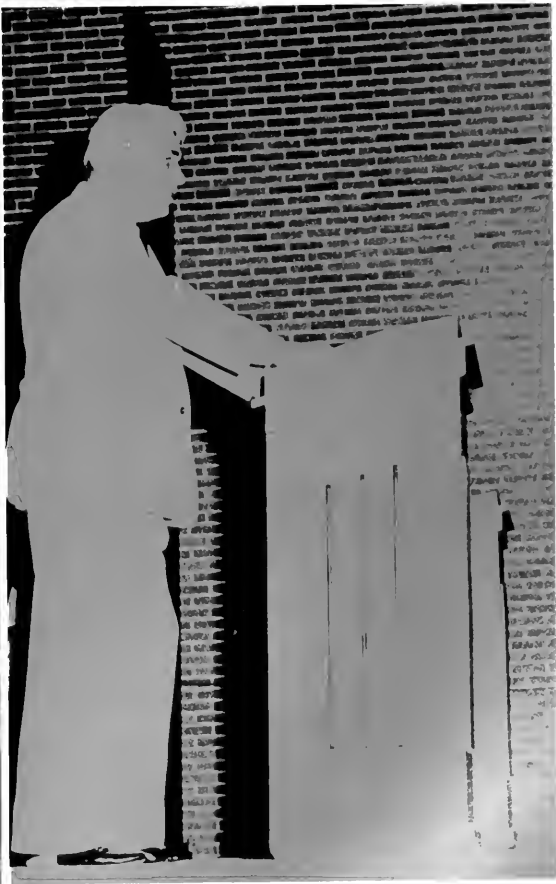

The band featured Peter Haycock, lead and slide acoustic guitars; Colin Cooper, tenor saxophone, clarinet, blues harp, guitar and vocals; Derek Holt, bass, guitar, piano; and John Cuttley, drums, percussion.

Haycock had the audience howling like crazies and on their feet for a standing ovation by the time "Paper Hat" was completed. "Climax" closed their set by buying trishaws out into the audience. But AU brought them back for a double encore. They played a lot of songs from their newer albums with a few old ones interspersed, and as a special addition a new one or two.

Kennedy Political Union Speakers

During the school-year 1974-75 the Kennedy Political Union choose speakers from a wide spectrum of topics. The year started with Congressman Chales Wiggons (lower right p. 149) and Mr. Henry Schwarzschild debating the amnesty issue. The Orientation speaker was Senator Walter Mondale, (upper left), to familiarize the students with the role of the KPU on campus. A top speaker of the year was former Isreali Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who received the largest attendance of any speaker this year. Also this year lectures were delivered by Dr. Peter Breggin, Ben Watenberg, (lower left p. 149), Dennis Banks, (upper right) Sargeant Schriver, (lower left) and Senator Dick Clark. In previous years the K.P.U. has featured such noteworthy speakers as Peter Flanigan, Barbara Milkulski, William Steiger, Robert Meyers, Henry Jackson, and Dick Gregory. The itinerary formerly consisted of Philip Berrigan, Gloria Steinam, and David Frye.

The New Riders of the Purple Sage

"The New Riders of the Purple Sage" brought out close to 5,000 people, on Sunday afternoon, September 22, in the Woods-Brown Amphitheater. It was one of the most successful concerts at AU because they attracted a wide range of people, from freaked out space cadets to the more moderate ballad listener.

The crowd waited an hour due to the discrepancy over the construction of the stage. The audience apparently didn't mind.

The "New Riders" gave a good show, with a good mixture from old and new albums. About 80% of their newest album was sung.

They have a strong dislike for being labeled "country-rock". As "The Riders of the Purple Sage" they played with Gene Autrey. Then they became the "New Riders", and were given national exposure by touring with the "Grateful Dead".

Bruce Springsteen

Bruce Springsteen's American University concert on November 23 in Leonard Gym was received by a responsive and enthusiastic audience. Although there were various technical delays which required the crowd to wait for two hours the concert proved to be a definite success. After playing three and a half hours Springsteen responded to the tremendous reaction of the crowd by giving two encores.

Springsteen's technique is to start out on a mid-tone in his songs, then build to a strong crescendo by the end. This proves to capture the audience's attention and build up.

Bruce Springsteen is from Asbury Park, New Jersey, which was also a factor in drawing a large number of students. The students related to the "heart on the boardwalk" theme of his songs.

No II Tuition

The University Senate in action with the issue of 11% tuition hike the most controversial topic to come before it in several years. Provost Cleary ponders the topic under discussion, while student University senator Gail Mutnik argues against the raise in tuition. Approximately 300 interested students attended in the course of the four-and-a-half hour hearing.

Ralph Nader

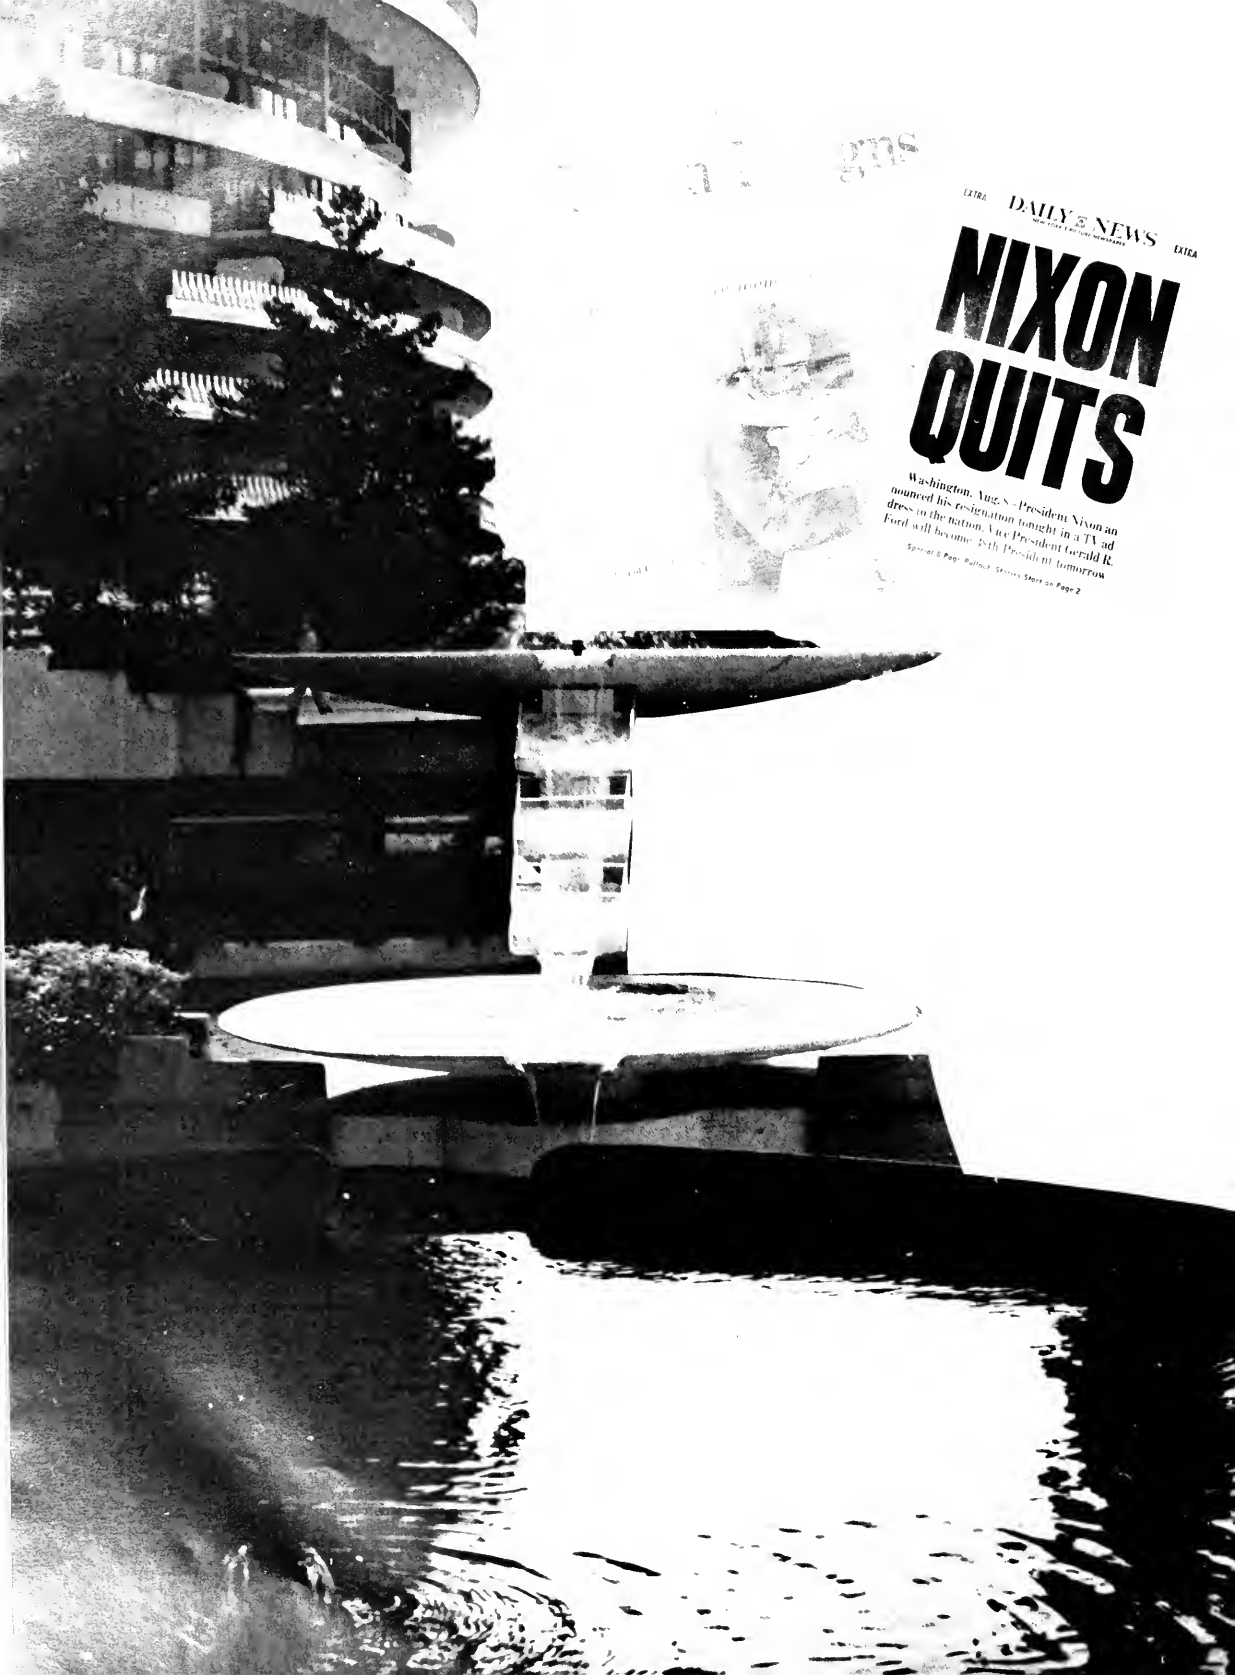

On November 11, 1974 Ralph Nader spoke to a capacity crowd in the Donald Derby Room in Mary Graydon Center.

Due to the unsuccessful past attempts to place a Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) fee as a voluntary check-off on the MIRF form consumer advocate Ralph Nader came to speak in favor of the PIRG issue. He urged students to have their voice heard.

Looking at students from the point of view of consumer protection, Nader described them as "consumers of their educational services who should have the same rights as any consumer." "The university has got a self-perpetuating, closed-door trustee system. In turn, your sense of students rights is minimal," said Nader. His direct sighting of the trustee situation was a reflection of the recent Trustee meeting in which they voted against the PIRG fee.

Nader also stated that, "PIRG is developing the most important career in the country, a full time citizen career". The students responded to the stimulating and challenging speech by signing up to participate in the various projects sponsored by the PIRG program on campus.

Transfer admissions bound

By [Name]

Transfer students at American University are facing a difficult situation as the school's admissions office has announced that it will be limiting the number of transfer students accepted for the fall semester. This decision has caused concern among students who are considering transferring to American University from other schools. The admissions office has stated that the number of transfer students accepted will be limited to 100 for the fall semester, down from 150 in previous years. This decision is based on the school's current enrollment and the need to maintain a certain level of academic excellence. The admissions office has also stated that it will be reviewing the academic records of all transfer students and may reject some students if they do not meet the school's standards. This decision has caused frustration among students who are considering transferring to American University, as they may not be able to secure a spot at the school. Some students are looking for alternative options, such as applying to other schools or waiting for the next admission cycle. The admissions office has stated that it will be reviewing the situation and may make adjustments in the future.

This decision has caused concern among students who are considering transferring to American University from other schools. The admissions office has stated that the number of transfer students accepted will be limited to 100 for the fall semester, down from 150 in previous years. This decision is based on the school's current enrollment and the need to maintain a certain level of academic excellence. The admissions office has also stated that it will be reviewing the academic records of all transfer students and may reject some students if they do not meet the school's standards. This decision has caused frustration among students who are considering transferring to American University, as they may not be able to secure a spot at the school. Some students are looking for alternative options, such as applying to other schools or waiting for the next admission cycle. The admissions office has stated that it will be reviewing the situation and may make adjustments in the future.

VP forces Young resignation

Even Young, former director of residential life, is reportedly running for the Maryland State Legislature from the 20th district.

VP forces Young resignation

The resignation of a Vice President (VP) has caused a significant shift in the university's leadership. The VP, who had been in the position for several years, has stepped down from his role. This has led to a search for a new VP to take over the position. The university's board of trustees has announced that they will be reviewing the situation and will be making a decision on who to appoint as the new VP. The resignation of the current VP has caused concern among students and faculty, as they are unsure of the future of the university. A Dialogue

Last day of school: Senior year. Phone rings.

Student A: Hello?

Student B: (Recognizing voice) Howdy! What's doing?

Student A: (Recognizing voice) Not much. Just waiting for my parents to pull the car up front so we can load.

Student B: Where's your roommate?

Student A: Left yesterday really early. Woke me up at six a.m., the schmuck.

Student B: My roommate's leaving tomorrow. (pause, uncomfortable silence. Nothing much to say after four years)

Student A: Wow, it's so empty in the room! Everything is packed, the posters are off the wall, and my voice is bouncing off the walls. It's weird!

Student B: (avoiding the topic) Yes, well, that's the way it goes. (Pause) Boy, just think. We've done it!! We've really done it!!! It's over!! Out into the big, vast real world!! Isn't it great??

Student A: Yea, I guess. I kinna would like to stick around a little. It really went quickly. There are so many people I have to say goodbye to, and I know that I won't see them. Hey, did you hear that Bill got into Georgetown Law?? That's really great!

Student B: Yea, I heard. Can you imagine him in a court room? What a laugh! "Your Honor, I request a recess so we can go to the bathroom."
(Both laugh)

(Another few moments of silence)

Student A: There's the buzz. It's my parents, I've got to run.

Listen. Have a great summer, and please write, O.K.?

Student B: (Knows that correspondence is not the solution) Sure, I'll write. Have a safe trip home, and good luck.

Student A: Thanks, you too. Take care, goodbye.

(Both parties hang up phone simultaneously, take a deep breath, and proceed to take their chances in the year ahead.)

The Nose Knows

It has been said that people always expect an experience to be more than it turns out to be, and are often distressed and disappointed when expectation fall short of reality. As naive freshpersons entering into the new college environment, we all expected certain things and were regularly disappointed to find that AU wasn't all it promised to be in the Catalogue. Indeed, we all got frustrated with the hassels of adding and dropping courses, book store lines, food services, etc., etc.

Like a used car which fails to operate despite the dealer's promises, AU is indeed a lemon in a sense.

Often, the AU student gets himself in a pickle and is only frustrated when he cannot remedy the situation because of AU's bureaucratic lemon.

However, even in adversity, the AU student learns to cope with these hassling situations through pondering the more positive attributes of the AU scene, and soon, everything is rosey again.
